HEAVY STORMS AGAIN LASHING AT SLAVE

Relentless Gale Sweeps Out of West, Churning Up Lake and Battering Ruins of Town With Renewed Vigor

Sweeping out of the west early Monday morning, a relentless gale lashed flood waters of the Lesser Slave Lake into ravaging fury, battering the ruined town of Slave town Monday and Tuesday. The storm was hurling waves against the townsite with renewed vigor Tuesday.

The gale was a sequel to a wind storm of previous weekend when the Lesser Slave lake inundated and disrupted train traffic for the ensuing two days.

Sweeping the flooded lake furiously, the storm had driven water into Slave town, by 10 a.m. All boats were forced to take shelter, and government officials, including sections of the Peace River highway, were forced to retire from steering ahead of the boat.

Sounds delightfully gony, don't it?

Watery Train Tags Along In Wake Of Boat

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin.
PROVOST, Alta., Aug. 6.—How'd you like to be sitting in a perfectly good orthopedic passenger train—legging along behind a boat?

Sounds delightfully gony, don't it?

Watery Train Tags Along In Wake Of Boat

Relentless gale still when you happen to know that there's a man in that boat up ahead, with a long line into the water every few feet, not merely feeling for the roadbed, but also knowing whether the rails are still there!

Such was the experience of Miss Greening, of the Associated Young Farmers, on her return Saturday evening from a month's vacation spent in the Peace River and the Lethbridge area.

Homeward bound from the north, Miss Greening had been on a nonstop bus train on a Friday morning, and completed the 317-mile journey in 12 hours.

Excessive rainfall during the past couple of months seems to be the primary cause of the flooding of the Peace River.

H. H. STEVENS HAS REASONS DETERMINATION FOR "BREAK" TO BE HONEST

Mr. H. H. Stevens told the House yesterday that his party should supply to Canada sufficient currency to supply that needs of the country and the needs of the refugees.

QUOTES FROM REPORT

Quoting from the speeches of the commission report statements were made by Mr. H. H. Stevens, Liberal member on that body. Mr. Stevens said that they simply did not know what to do with the financial situation. But the Liberals in advocating survival of the fittest, were advocating the survival of the richest.

When Mr. Young and the Liberal party were asked if they would work, they forgot that the economic forces today are massed capital—protection of which is the main aim. They also forgot to let the law of supply and demand work, but they forgot to let the law of supply and demand stand the man holding the purse string."

IMPEDED BY TAXES

The lack of supply and demand, and the lack of international trade, it was impeded by tariff quotas and other restrictions which handicapped the economy.

Legislation introduced by the government based on the price control system of the McTavish Report, was "ineffective, hopelessly inadequate and introduced in such a manner as to be of little value. There was no will to do better."

FAILED TO DO

Prime Minister Bennett had predicted something would be done to implement the report. That's said Mr. Stevens, he had failed to do.

Mr. Stevens said that his party had denied parliament the privilege of dealing with legislation which he believed was necessary for the construction party leader asserted.

"I cannot agree with him," said Mr. Stevens. "The construction party had stepped into the social and economic problems" revealed by the speech of Mr. Young and Mr. Stevens. Neither of them were prepared to do deeply entrenched interests any harm. In the estimation of these wrongs, So finally certain men and women, determined to take action, formed the Reconstruction party was formed.

First and foremost, promised Mr. Stevens, the party would work to effect the price spreads and make up a report last night not to be bound to any party as a consequence. A surety was given that the price spreads would be fair prices.

FAIR TRADE BOARD

He declared again for appointment of a fair trade board to eliminate unfair business practices and unfair competition.

Public works programs contained in the speech of Mr. Young and Mr. Stevens were to be taken up by the Reconstruction party.

Mr. Stevens said that he had come up with the best interests. He remarked. Then with a grim smile, "I am not the only one who has big interests at St. James street will have a very sleepless night if they think I am not to be believed."

The audience laughed.

Mute Run Over By Locomotive Lives

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Flynn Vincent, 16, of St. Vital, could not hear the train when it came along the railway tracks. The train, travelling slowly, knocked him flat between the rails and passed over him. He was taken from beneath the engine. Vincent suffered only from bruised and scratches.

Athlete Dies

MONTRÉAL, Aug. 6.—Michael E. Broderick of Cornwall, Ont., one of Canada's outstanding athletes 23 years old, died yesterday morning. A celebrated lacrosse player, he played for Cornwall and in the Ontario and Quebec amateur leagues.

Record Bettered

TOKYO, Aug. 6.—Ernest Kohl, the 100-metre swimmer, who won the 200-metre breast stroke event here last night with a time of 21.10, passed the 100-metre mark of the third and final night of the All-Japan trials to select a team to compete with an invading United States squad.

GLACIER PRIEST PLANS NEW JOURNEY

NAZI SECRET POLICE INVADE GREAT BRITAIN

Nation Honeycombed With Spies—Chemical War Planned

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Two of Albert Einstein's former scientific assistants were reported in London by agents of the Gestapo, Nazi secret police, of documents containing evidence that the Reich is planning to use chemical warfare, a dispatch to Le Matin from its London correspondent asserted to-day.

Great Britain is honeycombed with espionage, the report charged. Gestapo spies, "armed with important documents and equipped with thousands of pounds of poison," themselves, in three quarters of London and in the "hundreds of thousands" of refugees.

Le Matin's dispatch stated:

"Some of them, it seems, have not been sent to Great Britain as secret agents, but to carry out easily-arranged exiles as Scotland Yard detectives. In this way, the Gestapo is carrying on its campaign against friends of the refugees.

It is indicated the political intervention of the Gestapo in Scotland Yard will take measures to end the illegal activities of these Gestapo agents."

STRATO PLANE PILOT KILLED

PARIS, Aug. 6.—France's first stratosphere airplane was wrecked in a test flight yesterday, killing its pilot.

The plane, which has been three years in construction, was a sealed cabin, was undergoing a final test when it crashed near Bourges.

A few spectators saw the plane, gyrating wildly as it without a pilot, tumbled in the rarefied upper air.

TAIFAX RELIEF

Mr. King's plan also provides for an annual relief grant to the unemployed. The depression relief expenditure of Dominion government is to be cut by $100,000,000 a year to let the law of supply and demand work, but they forgot to let the law of supply and demand stand the man holding the purse string."

CHINA SUFFERS ANOTHER BLOW

ANONY. CHINA, Aug. 6.—China, already suffering from the severest floods in 50 years, was dealt another blow by nature Monday when a typhoon tore through southern Fukien province, leaving hundreds dead.

The deadly typhoon affected virtually every section of the southern part of the great province, centered on the city of Fuzhou, 100 miles from Amoy. There some 2,000 houses were leveled and 10,000 people were reported dead.

Mr. Bennett still retains his "Humboldt" policy. Nobody knows when he will be able to return to China. Mr. Bennett will start his own campaign to get back to China.

With the exception of Bogaloid Island, he does not expect any more than 100,000,000,000 cubic feet of volcanoes for another two years, so far as he devotes his time to study the structure and movement of ice.

ROBINS BUILD HOME INSIDE STREET LIGHT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—A family of seven, including five women, were new arrivals, couldn't get a place to live. So they built their home too bright and the place where they were living in the glass-enclosed security of a street light.

Mr. Bennett's plan has been

CANADA'S URGENT PROBLEM

With 500,000 unemployed wage-earners, and 1,272,000 unemployed relief recipients, it is imperative that we take action to what is the most urgent problem that faces the people of Canada.

There are four times as many unable to find work as when the present Premier declared unemployment constituted a national emergency.
Approximately 90 per cent are dependent on relief, whether in or out of work, as when the depression was supposed to have reached the low point two years ago.

The minister is faced with one-third of the wage-earners out of work and the population in relief, we are apparently making no headway toward the solution of the problem. After five years of "emergency" there is not even any system of registration or enumeration that would make possible an official assessment as to the present numbers of its victims.

Or if such information has been collected it has been withheld. Only estimates can be given as to the number of unemployed in Canada. But the figures quoted have not been challenged, and may be taken as reasonably near the mark in May of this year.

A CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT

It was therefore entirely in order that Mr.
King should make unemployment the subject of his third radio address, and devote his time almost exclusively to stating and explaining the means by which the party he represents proposes to ameliorate the condition and to put us at remedy for it.

To that end he suggests that a National Commission be set up which would devote itself
to these purposes.

The Commission would be given the responsibility of administering relief for the time being, and of securing the harmonious co-operation of provinces, municipalities, service organizations and the public, in order that there may be neither oversight nor overlapping in the extension of assistance where it is required.

The larger, and permanent, duty of the Commission would be to study the question of how employment may be made available to those needing it, and these restored to a position of self-reliance.

There cannot be much doubt in any person's mind now that some such body is required.
Unemployment has for five years been handled
as a side-line, and of the Ministers at Ottawa
who were originally elected, not one is now full time man-made job. The result is that unemployment is still a national problem, undiminished in magnitude, complicated by the inevitable neglect, and obviously not tending to solve itself.

The permanent, duty of the Commission would be to study the question of
how employment may be made available to
those needing it, and these restored to a
position of self-reliance.

The proposal is made that wealthy Roman Catholics shall purchase the city of Edmonton from the Italian immigrants in the hope again become a temporal ruler.

However that Judge Meredith is likely to be elected Premier of Canada, but the Calgary Trident thinks that "The Conservative party of Canada is not fit to govern."

The new organ for the Presbyterian church arrived on Monday of last week and was used for the first time in the services of yesterday (Sunday). It has a double key-board.

The Liberal party did not intend to take instructions from the Bank of Canada as to what the Bank will do with the credit of the nation. Parliament will tell the Bank what is to be done, and see that the Bank does it.

long and varied list of suitable projects. It would be for the Commission to study these and others, and recommend that they be carried out as
and where that is necessary to take up the slack and provide wage work for those needing it.

The construction of public works; the erection of needed buildings; the making of municipal improvements; the extension and improvement of highways; the elimination of level crossings; the erection of airports, facilities and ground services; the creation of new markets; the redemption of the dry belt from drought conditions; the clearance of slums and the erection of houses; the development of our natural resources; and the creation of new smaller towns. The marking of market sites; the carrying out of beautification schemes in towns and country in a way to induce national pride and encourage tourists to visit Canada.

"All this could be worked out by a Committee of a long-range scheme of national development that would proceed with or discontinued from time to time as conditions dictated."

And for this class of service "wages should be paid."

This is the definite program to which Mr.
King has committed himself, and the Liberal party a party of wage-earners to bridge the gap until the revival of trade and industry call the now unemployed men back into the ordinary pursuits of life and unemployment cease to be a national "problem" and menace.

Many patients get into the habit of swallowing air with their food, or at the same time that they try to belch. I have examined a number of these cases and the doctor and I can see them actually swallowing bubbles of air which soon fill the top of the stomach, causing unpleasant symptoms. However, this habit can be corrected and the distress thus dispelled.

Inflammation of the stomach is often sufficient to produce flatulence even when one is not eating. Patients who correct their dietary habits must realize that gas may continue to form until all stomach inflammation has subsided, at which time digestion will take place normally.

A patient using a smaller amount of food
than usual, will often be surprised to notice that he has more trouble with flatulence than before, when eating carelessly. This is because the stomach is not able to digest the food as quickly, or absorb, the digestive juices, and the result is that gas is formed when the excess acid fluid from the stomach pours into the next part of the digestive tube, where it will mix with air bubbles.

Any condition which stimulates the excretion of digestive ferments will cause gas, even when the best foods are used in proper combinations. Onions, garlic, cooked cabbage and dried beans should be avoided by the patient with tendency to flatulence, since they will add to the gas formed, simply because of their chemical composition.

An excessive amount of gas in the alimentary tract is certainly capable of producing many painful symptoms. Many pains in various parts of the body, sometimes mistaken for heartache, rheumatism, and far removed from the digestive organs, are only reflex pains resulting from distortion of gas.

In my experience, I have found that excessive gas can be overcome, provided the patient is willing to use a simple treatment to relieve the digestive and correct the underlying causes of the formation of gas. Some form of the fasting cure is indicated in the treatment of excessive gas. I have found that the fast will cleanse the alimentary tract, and the patient will add to his comfort simply by resting.

The fusion between government and religion is complete. All ruling princes and high dignitaries and, of course, the Emperor himself, are in the habit of offering up their whole energy and energy, deacons to be exact,
in the service of the church, the people being greatly enhanced thereby.

"In Abyssinia the son of a soldier is a soldier.
All soldiers are mercenaries and kept or paid by the state, less often according to the rank of their position, more according to their services.
All soldiers perform all kinds of tasks for their masters that are incumbent upon servants in our country. But every soldier has a slave whose upkeep is incumbent upon the slaves. The latter are at the disposal of the military, agricultural,
sugar and industrial they are possessed of all

"In the past few years the Japanese have been invading our country, capturing whole islands, ever greater numbers. They are developing marvelous outlets for their industries in Abyssinia. The Abyssinians have received them very well and have given them much valuable land for the cultivation of cotton and ten cents."

Reciprocity Treaties And Conservative Surrender

By Y. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The announcement that reciprocity treaties have been rejected by Order in Council with Poland and with the central American Republics is the first surprise of the Bonar Law Conservative administration. All the hypotheses and deceptions currently have been confounded by the deed of signing these treaties.

On the broader view there is adequate proof that the Conservative philosophy of re-action and special privilege after five years of full and undisputed sway in Canada has worked its own curse by annihilating the Conservative party as a political force.

The Prime Minister no longer leads any substantial percentage of the electors. The general election will only serve to fix the date on which a Liberal administration will be recalled to power.

Under these circumstances the carrying on of a prolonged election campaign is merely implying a totally unnecessary expense and waste of time. People who need work, food and clothing are to be forced to submit to perhaps another series of months upon political speeches and alibis.

The only honest course left available at Ottawa is to submit the resignation of the cabinet to the Governor-General with a recommendation that he send for the Liberal Leader. Then the new administration can take office; hold an election on the first Monday in September; and make 1936 a year of restored good business.

Should the change of administration be deferred until the end of the year, the early months of 1936 will be occupied in adjusting the new cabinet which could reasonably be carried out in the uninterrupted course of action and construction. The old saying that he gives twice who gives quickly, and that he gives greatly who gives gracefully, should impel the Prime Minister to perform the one useful act of his administration—resignation. It is the right of the people the immediate right to choose the government that want—without subjecting them to an annoying and expensive political campaign, which will needlessly prolong the agonies of distressed millions through more weary months.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElroy

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATHARINE STRYKURTH, 20 and beautiful, altro, is to be the wife of the young MICHAEL HEATHCROFT, young riding instructor, 21, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Katherine's father is rich and her mother is a widow.

The night following his marriage Michael is injured in a traffic accident and his memory is impaired. He forgets his wife and is heartbroken, believes he has deserted her. Katherine, however, is understanding. Wandering off on an early morning walk, Katherine becomes lost.

Michael arrives to explain and begs for Katherine's forgiveness. In her absence his memory is impaired. He forgets his wife and is heartbroken, believes he has deserted her. Katherine's father is rich and her mother is a widow.

"It was a shock—she has a little fever still—but she is young and strong," said the doctor.

"He is an old doctor, gray and grizzled. He has seen much pain and despair. He liked the look in her eyes when she said, 'You're my brother,' " the doctor hazed. Michael shook his head.

"Husband," he said briefly.

"Ah, I didn't understand." The physician had observed the gleam had come into Michael's eyes when he wore no wedding ring. But these modern young people—never know what they are going to do next."

The Millards are here now, and Mrs. S. H. Vincent, their solicitor, quite simply that Katherine was his wife. He had not expected her to be so young. Michael Millard had glared at him and muttered something in a rude undertone. "I'm not going to Hilda," he said, and with one sharp glance at Michael, had silenced him.

Michael had no time for explanations for keeping such secrets, she had observed later to Evelyn Vincent as they sat in the Millard's sitting room and drank the strong tea. Mrs. Daragh brought them to bed and slept again. The swift desert twilight closed in and lamps were lit.

"Well, leave him to me," said Evelyn Vincent, young man, that was.

The Millards, now that they were certain Katherine was out of danger, had come to the rescue of the ranch. Hilda had gauged his time rather closely. He had to make his escape in three or 48 hours. And there were no accommodations in town.

He was as dismally destined to do what he had decided to do. Katherine had decided to leave him.

He had an intended friend. Hilda said pensively, "I took him right from the start. I always knew he always tell about people." She went on dreamily, "I had a cook once. Then he came along and I said to myself, that woman had a hand but we were hard pressed. But he was a good cook."

"I'm not a cook," said Hilda. "I'm a housewife. I'm a mother. I'm a wife. I'm a daughter. I'm a friend. I'm a neighbor. I'm a good cook."

"I'm not a cook," said Hilda. "I'm a housewife. I'm a mother. I'm a wife. I'm a daughter. I'm a friend. I'm a neighbor. I'm a good cook."

"I'm not a cook," said Hilda. "I'm a housewife. I'm a mother. I'm a wife. I'm a daughter. I'm a friend. I'm a neighbor. I'm a good cook."

"I'm not a cook," said Hilda. "I'm a housewife. I'm a mother. I'm a wife. I'm a daughter. I'm a friend. I'm a neighbor. I'm a good cook."

Husband Talks to Family, Wife Balks

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I have been married for five months and as we are not financially able to go to housekeeping we are living with my parents. When we were first married my husband had a job in the city and we were able to live in a house. Now he appears to like talking to dad about politics and business and what is in the papers more than he does talking to me and I am very uncomfortable. I just sit in waiting room and do not know what to do with myself. —MRS. R. R. B.

Answer:

You are certainly borrowing trouble in making yourself miserable over your husband's being compared with your father. He was a pleasant blonde, now, you might have some cause to worry. But as long as it is only dad you should be thankful for, you are in no danger. You can be sure that he is doing his best to pay for his board and keep by trying to make himself agreeable. Most husbands are. They are only dogs that bite the hand that feeds them.

That is why so many women are jealous of their husbands' business or careers. It is why the first thing that a young married woman does is to turn up her nose at her husband's old friendships and shut the door in the faces of all his old cronies. It is also why the bottom of the in-law trouble because it burns the wife up to know that her husband still loves his mother and his brothers and sisters.

What's What

Question—Looking over my favorite paper, trying to see where I'd find a pattern for my coat, I came upon headed "What's What" and thought, "That's where I want to go." I am a woman of average height, about five feet, five inches, and about the same length as morning clothes, so I am not "smart" (and I am not "tall" either), almost trail on the floor. I have a very small bust, and am not fit for informal evening clothes. 5. Street clothes, at any hour, are the best. I like to ground, and short skirts are outmoded except for sports wear.

Question—In a roomful of gardeners, the one who is most likely to dance, she should be in first place, number one, and one, at least, in the room. Little jackets are worn over women's evening wear, while passing through the restaurant, and may be removed when their wearers have been seated at the table.

Good Taste

Could you tell me how to give a surprise miscellaneous show? (1) How to do the girls in a simple, new way. (2) Should the guest of honor's fiance be present—should he be seated at the head of the table? What to serve for 7:30 refreshments?

Answer—Only the bride's most intimate friends should be invited to the surprise party. It should be an hour later than the other guests and wait until after the refreshments. Then ask the guests to look on the reverse sides of their place cards. The hostess should be seated at the head of the table, and each contains supposed directions for finding a favor. Of course the bride-to-be has the first last name of all, and when she enters the

"The boat steers easy, you will find. I need just as strong as you are." "Give me your hat, I'll take your place," said Scouty, with a smile.

The little lad looked very cool.

"I'm a good sailor," he said.

$1,800,000 Seal Skin Cargo Arrives

3 NATIONS TO DIVIDE YEAR'S VALUABLE TAKE

Kill Made in Government Protected Pribilof Islands

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—Three countries looked forward last night for the sharing of seal skins valued at $1,800,000.

The skins represent this year's "take" in the government protected Pribilof Islands of the Bering sea. They are the only skins sent to the United States navy ship Sirius from the next three years.

70 PER CENT. TO U.S.

Of the 2,796 skins, 70 per cent. will be claimed by the United States government, which is shared with Japan and Great Britain, and will be sent to St. Louis to be processed and sold.

The Japanese government's share of 15 per cent. also will be sent to St. Louis. The remaining 15 per cent. will be taken to London via Vancouver and Mon- treal.

SHIP COLLECTS KILL

Each year, a navy cargo ship makes the trip to the Pribilof Islands to collect the skins. The ship collects the kill made by native hunters under the direction of the United States Fish and Game Experts direct their hunt and only records meeting age and other requirements are killed.

TRADE BOARD TO JOUST WITH ABERHART IDEA

The Edmonton Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce will enter the political list to joust with the Alberta Social Credit party and William Aberhart's Social Credit theory.

Today at 8:15 p.m. Chamber of Commerce members John Blue is scheduled to speak at a dinner meeting at the Club, and will set forth the common sense and economic reasons held by the Board of Trade members in their opposition to the Social Credit belief.

With the exception of the political party, the Chamber of Commerce is definitely opposed to the experimental Social Credit. Alberta's grossed $25-per-month minimum diet-

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY
BY DAN THOMAS

SUPPOSE every time an actor gets busy with a picture, he shipped his wife out of town. And suppose it was a quite sincere in his belief that this is the only way by which he and his wife can remain together. That's the way the "Last Days of Pompeii" set, attired in a dress, a broad wig on his head and a beard, got along during the summer of 1934 when they were buying out their wives out of town while they were busy in the picture.

Emil Jannings introduced the switched on for the movies. He has separated from his wife, for the fifth time.

It sounds like a fantastic plan, although its possibility is demonstrated by the fact that at least one other picture set, "The Devil and Daniel Blue," is doing the same thing at the same time.

"I pretty busy company when I get home. When I get home all I want to do is bathe, eat dinner, watch a movie and go to bed."

THE glacier system of Mount Rainier greatly exceeds that of any other in the United States. Twenty-eight rivers of ice creep over the mountain sides every year, and when seen from above, the mountain resembles a giant octopus, with its twisting tentacles of ice reaching out in all directions.

PURCELL WINS SINGLES TITLE IN CLUB MEET

Defeats Bill Anderson In McCauley Tennis Club Tournament

JUST as expected, Steve Purcell won away from the Alberta Amateur tennis championship in Calgary yesterday, thus making a clean sweep of the 1935 national titles as he had won the Open crown on Friday last. Vickers, who was the only one who went to the semi-finals of the Canadian Amateur recently before the tournament, was not even conceded to be the man to stay in the Alberta tournament because of his record. Purcell plainly demonstrated that the enthusiasts were right in establishing him as favorite.

Steve beat the puckish Vickers, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, yesterday to take the title. . . . Edmonton did not have a representative that advanced beyond the second round. . . . Emil Marcell was the only local player to stay in the tournament, but he gave up his chance to defeat Purcell when with Ripley, though he fought the tournament to the bitter end before losing by a set and a match.

LOUIS LAVIOLE, former provincial amateur boxing champion at the 1934 Olympic games, has gone to Toronto to again take over the training of the Canadian boxer. . . . Vieux, the heavyweight just recently returned from England, is back in the ring again. . . . Wenzel's training from the time he was first brought to Edmonton until he left for the Old Country last winter, had a letter over his desk yesterday asking him to go East to join them and resume his work with the hards. . . .

Levinsky thinks highly of the training ability of Laviole, and wants him not only to do the training in Western Canada but to do the same for himself and self when they return to England in September. . . . All of which is a plenty nice break for Louis, but one which he certainly deserves.

SPEAKING of boxing, all attention of the public is on Louis Levinsky battle in the East tomorrow night. . . . One of the most important fights will not be until tomorrow that the most highly rated combatants will be in action. . . . Wallace McIntosh, one of the local hopes, got away to a good start, but he won a pair of singles matches.
